

Work in groups to play pelmanism.

You stole the car! (accuse)	police officer	You should take some antibiotics. (recommend)	doctor	You must revise before the exam! (insist)	teacher
My team won every match! (boast)	football coach	What do you want to eat? (ask)	waitress	Why don't you try a new hairstyle? (suggest)	hairdresser
Please show your ticket. (tell)	bus driver	You ought to buy a new toothbrush. (recommend)	dentist	Please buy my new book! (beg)	author
I will improve the economy. (promise)	politician	I'm sorry about the delayed flight. (apologise)	pilot	I'll write a song for you. (offer)	musician
You should give less food to your dog. (suggest)	vet	You shouldn't run near the pool. (warn)	lifeguard	You should get some new glasses. (advise)	optician

7 Grammar Review

Aims: To review and practise grammar from the unit. This can be completed when students have finished the unit.

Time: 15–20 minutes

Materials: 1 set of cards cut up for each group of four students

- Divide students into groups of four. Give each group a set of cards, which they spread out face down in the middle. One student turns over two cards. They try to find matching pairs of cards – one card with a direct speech sentence and the other card with the person who would have said it. If they think they have a matching pair, they then transform the direct speech sentence into reported speech. If they make a correct sentence, they can keep the cards. If the cards don't match, they turn them so that they're face down again and the next person picks up two cards.
- Play continues in the same way until all the cards have been matched. The winner is the student with the most cards at the end.

KEY

You stole the car! (accuse) police officer

The police officer accused me of stealing the car.

You should take some antibiotics (recommend) doctor

The doctor recommended that I take some antibiotics.

You must revise before the exam! (insist) teacher

The teacher insisted that I revised before the exam.

My team won every match! (boast) football coach

The football coach boasted that his team had won every match.

What do you want to eat? (ask) waitress

The waitress asked me what I wanted to eat.

Why don't you try a new hairstyle? (suggest) hairdresser

The hairdresser suggested that I tried a new hairstyle.

Please show your ticket. (tell) bus driver

The bus driver told me to show my ticket.

You ought to buy a new toothbrush. (recommend) dentist

The dentist recommended buying a new toothbrush.

Please buy my new book! (beg) author

The author begged me to buy his/her new book.

I will improve the economy. (promise) politician

The politician promised to improve the economy.

I'm sorry about the delayed flight. (apologise) pilot

The pilot apologised for the delayed flight.

I'll write a song for you. (offer) musician

The musician offered to write a song for me.

You should give less food to your dog. (suggest) vet

The vet suggested that I gave less food to my dog.

You shouldn't run near the pool. (warn) lifeguard

The lifeguard warned me not to run near the pool.

You should get some new glasses. (advise) optician

The optician advised me to get some new glasses.